

Mission Statement

At the service of the church and one with the Missionary Oblates of Mary Immaculate whose mission is that of Jesus Christ sent to announce good news to the poor, freedom to captives and new vision to the blind (Luke 4), Queen's House is primarily committed to the renewal of the people of God with special regard for the alienated and the suffering.

A place of hospitality, beauty and quiet, Queen's House welcomes all peoples in their unique life experiences. They come to pray and worship, to seek healing and human dignity, to grow in knowledge of self, the world and God. With risk and daring Queen's House responds to these needs through creative programs and collaborative ministry.

Embracing its own need for conversion, Queen's House looks to the day when all may love tenderly, act justly and walk in truth with one another and with God (Micah 6).

Incarnational Spirituality as a Means for Cultural Transformation

It is easy to think of the sacred and the secular as opposed. However, recent research shows the secular contains deeply imbedded sacred values. These values are not expressed using religious concepts or symbols. Rather they are revealed through the intense emotions that surface around issues of significant cultural concern. The numerous emerging sex abuse scandals and the increasing polarizations in religion and politics, for example, can therefore be seen as conflicts about what ought to be understood as sacred in the secular world.

Due to the profound nature of these conflicts, it is very difficult to remain neutral or even to transcend the entrenchments so common in public debate. Yet there is hope. Drawing upon the recent writings of Richard Rohr, Rowan Williams, Cynthia Bourgeault, Ken Wilber, and Raimon Pannikar, this workshop will introduce an incarnational Christian spirituality that is desperately needed for our times. Understanding the goal of Christian spirituality as revealing the Christ to the world, this workshop will begin by reflecting theologically on our current time, moving on to discuss a possible spiritual response within a Christian framework. The workshop will finish by offering a number of spiritual practices for cultivating the attitudes necessary for engaging our world both lovingly and prophetically. Participants can thus expect to gain fresh insights into the many forces currently shaping our world, as well as several practical steps for nurturing a spirituality that can speak powerfully into our contemporary cultural context.
