Reiki Practitioners offer distant Reiki sessions

The Reiki practitioners at Queens House are not able to offer hands-on Reiki sessions at this time. However we would like to offer distant Reiki to our clients as an option.

Distant Reiki is sending Reiki to a client who is elsewhere. First the client and practitioner discuss the time Reiki is to be sent and how frequently. Usually it is done when the client is able to relax in a quiet place.

At the appointed time to send, the practitioner prepares themselves by acknowledging that the client is a spiritual being and that it is their spirit that will receive the healing energy. The practitioner allows Reiki energy to flow through them to the client. The client relaxes and allows the energy to be received by their spirit for their highest good.

After the practitioner closes the session, they and the client may wish to discuss how it went.

If this is something you would like to do, please contact one of the practitioners at Queens House to make arrangements.

Cost for this service is the same as hands-on sessions of $1.00/minute.

Thank you for your interest.
